ENGLISH ARMY IS INADEQUATE

UNFIT TO UPHOLD THE NATION'S PRESTIGE

Opinion Expressed by Field Marshall Roberts in House of Lords—Blames the People for Condition of Army.

London, July 10.—Field Marshall Lord Roberts created a sensation in the house of lords this evening when he in a lengthy and well considered speech deliberately expressed the opinion that the military force of Great Britain was inadequate, imperfectly trained and totally unfit to uphold Great Britain as a first-class power. Roberts did not blame the government, which, he said, was actuated by a national feeling, but he scathingly attacked the people of England, who, he said, showed no national feeling toward the military until danger arose. Then, said Roberts, the soldier was the pet of the people, but this was only an evanescent enthusiasm which did not entail self sacrifice and passed away as soon as danger disappeared.

The speech was delivered in connection with a motion introduced by Earl Wemyss and March (Conservative) traversing Premier Balfour's statement regarding the impossibility of the invasion of Great Britain and urging the necessity of keeping up sufficient land forces to repel any possible invasion.

Roberts said the lessons of the South African war had been forgotten. He had no hesitation in saying that the armed forces of Great Britain as a body were now as absolutely unfitted and unprepared for war as they were when the South African trouble broke out. He declared emphatically that the choice lay between conscription or some practical system of universal training and that only by such means would it be possible for Great Britain to possess an armed force organized and trained to meet the demands of the empire in event of war.

Roberts, continuing, asserted any discussion of Great Britain's military position within the limits of the motion proposed by the earl of Wemyss and March would be entirely unavailing. The country must decide with a decision of life or death the importance of a question of the empire, the issue of which depended upon Great Britain being ready to defend her eastern possessions and at the same time take part in any affair nearer home, either of which necessitated placing in the field of an army large and efficient as that of any of the European countries, all of which might be regarded as having in arms. He appealed to the country to awake to its danger and to take hold of the army as a great national issue on which the existence of Great Britain depended.

Discussion of the motion continued some time, the speakers complimenting Roberts for the stand he had taken. The government decided not to oppose the motion of the earl of Wemyss and March, which was passed without a division.

CONFERENCE AGREEMENT

REGARDED AS A DIPLOMATIC SUCCESS

Over Both France and Great Britain—Feeling of Relief Prevails in Paris—Text of Agreement Reached.

Berlin, July 10.—The agreement between France and Germany on the subject of Morocco, made public today, cannot but be regarded here as a diplomatic success of the first importance over both Great Britain and France, although it is expressed in terms of great moderation, the agreement being referred to as "an accord based on the full appreciation and recognition of each government's rights and aims."

France and Germany agree to recall their legations at Tangier as soon as the conference met at Fez and to jointly advise the sultan to prepare a program to be laid before the international conference in accordance with the principles set forth in letters exchanged, which fully recognize the special interests of France in Morocco.

A RELIEF

Paris, July 10.—Premier Rouvier's announcement in deputies today of the terms of agreement between France and Germany concerning Morocco brings a deep sense of relief to the entire country, after many weeks of tension, which many persons believed involved the possibilities of war.

The text of the three notes fully confirms the general impression relative to the lines of negotiation. Germany's contention before a conference receives the final adherence of France, but Rouvier has secured the safeguards which he insisted at the parliamentary conference with Prince von Radolin were indispensable. The most important of these safeguards is that the conference shall not convey any prejudice to Anglo-French or Franco-Spanish ententes. While Germany does not specifically assent to these agreements she formally withholds dissent. This is considered an important gain for France over the ambiguous position Germany heretofore occupied and as both the Anglo-French and Franco-Spanish ententes recognize France's privileged position in Morocco, France emerges from the negotiations with this privileged position still intact.

Both countries agree as to the sovereignty of the sultan, the independence of Morocco and the open door without limitation. This always has been the policy of both governments, so neither can claim a victory in this respect. At the same time it gives a new lease of existence to Morocco. On the other hand, the agreement recognizes France's special interest in the country due to the geographical proximity of Algeria and its right thereby to police the frontier and maintain peace and order. It still remains for the sultan to arrange the program of the conference. Officials anticipate that this will be an easy task, as the Franco-German agreement has so fully circumscribed the conference that it will be difficult to find questions remaining open for determination. It is pointed out that the sultan of Morocco's position is weakened by the negotiations, as he will no longer have representatives of the various powers pleading for favor, since the entire question of regulating Morocco is now practically taken out of his hands for determination elsewhere.

EQUITABLE AFFAIRS

Startling Revelations Said to Be Brought Forth in Testimony Taken by Insurance Department.

New York, July 10.—The World tomorrow will say: "Revelations far more startling than those in the report of Superintendent Hendricks are contained in the testimony taken in the state insurance department's investigation of the Equitable Life Assurance society."

Senator Chauncey M. Depew testified that the Depew Improvement company, in which he was interested, obtained a loan from the Equitable of $250,000 on property which the state insurance department valued at only $150,000. He admitted that neither principal nor interest had been paid and that the Equitable had been forced to foreclose. He admitted that, as a member of the executive committee of the Equitable, he had not advised the loan, but had voted for it. He confessed to making a promise that the Equitable should be made whole, but in the same breath said that the promise was not legally binding.

"Jacob H. Schiff, confronted with the records of the Equitable that Kuhn, Loeb & Co. had sold a large amount of Union Pacific preferred stock to the society, swore these records were false. In various sales of bonds to the Equitable by his firm he admitted a large loss was shown. He confessed that he had been a dummy director, but said that since the Equitable scandal developed he had bought five shares of the stock, paying $2,000 a share. "It appeared from his testimony, that of Hyde and others, that the Equitable had taken $2,000,000 worth of Union Pacific preferred, apparently at the suggestion of J. H. Harriman. It appeared that it should not be sold, making the deal a speculative one. No record of this agreement was put in evidence. Hyde said Harriman had it, but Harriman was not called as a witness."

MEETING OF ELKS

Thousands Gather at Buffalo to Attend Convention—Report on Elks Home.

Cincinnati, July 10.—In custody of a United States marshal, under orders of United States Judge Cochran, who last week assumed jurisdiction in this case, Caleb Powers, charged with complicity in the murder of William Goebel at Frankfort in the winter of 1900, was to be held pending a decision of the various legal points arising out of his transfer from state to federal jurisdiction. When Powers arrived at the Newport jail to fight a controversy arose between Jailer Ploeger and Mayor Hembold as to what cell the prisoner should occupy. A fight followed, during which the furniture in the cell prepared for Powers was confiscated by unknown persons. Subsequently Powers was placed in another cell with other prisoners, where he will remain until Jailer Ploeger can secure other quarters for him.

For five years Powers has been in prison, he has been tried four times and sentenced to death three times, but as he walked into the jail he expressed hope of his ultimate acquittal of the charge entered against him.

WORK STOPPED

Philadelphia, July 10.—The Public Ledger to tomorrow will say that work on 200,000 dress coats contracted for through the Schuylkill arsenal here has been stopped by peremptory order of Quartermaster General Humphreys in Washington and that a thorough investigation of affairs at the arsenal has been begun. The Ledger says that "because of the conditions under which the contracts are given out at the arsenal nearly half the dress coats in question have been manufactured and paid for. They lie idle in storehouses and in the opinion of experts are absolutely worthless for the purpose for which they were made. It is believed the investigation which has been started will show that the government has lost millions of dollars by the methods in vogue here."

RETAIL MERCHANTS

Meeting Held Monday Evening Freight Rate Question Discussed.

The Retail Merchants' association of this city met in their rooms Monday evening and transacted the general business of the association. The evening being so singularly there was not as large an attendance as usual. There were several matters of importance considered, among them the requests of several concerns looking for new locations. It is a peculiar thing that most of the factories looking for new locations are asking a bonus which is out of reach of most places. The refrigerator company which asked for a location here last week under a bonus of $25,000, which our merchants did not feel they could give, went to Danville, a place about one-third the size of Jacksonville, because that town had an old disused mill site which it turned over to the cold storage people. These people would use 100 men to start with and more as they went along. They estimated that they would use 300 men inside of two years, or three at the most. There is always a big demand for their goods. There is another concern now looking for a place for leather and leather worked goods. They ask for a loan of $20,000 for three years at 7 per cent, every cent to be placed here in the city. They estimate that they would be able in two years to pay back with interest, and those who are conversant with this kind of goods say that they pay well. They also employ about fifty men to start with and more as they grow. These are things that the merchants want, but are unable for the lack of means to hold here in the city.

The main matter of importance brought before the meeting was a letter received by Mr. Buckhorpe, the secretary, in regard to the freight rates here in Illinois. The letter speaks for itself, as it is hereto appended. Every merchant in the association will be interested in the result of the present fight in the freight rate business of Illinois.

LETTER BY MR. YOUNG.

Dear Sir: I am glad to hear for your personal copies of a letter by Mr. Young, traffic manager, to the Merchants' and Manufacturers' association of Bloomington, and the reply by Attorney Hamlin for the shippers. It will clearly be seen that the railroad people are making desperate efforts to maintain the present high maximum tariff in Illinois. Evidently they have little hope of being successful before the commission, and are therefore endeavoring to stir up a dissension between the interior jobber and Chicago shippers. It looks to the members of the Retail Merchants' association of Illinois and interior shippers, who are prosecuting the case, to be anything on the part of the railroads to maintain the present exorbitant maximum rates now in force for an indefinite period. A careful reading of Mr. Young's letter and Mr. Hamlin's reply is invited.

Peoria, Ill., June 23, 1906.
Chairman Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, Bloomington, Ills.

Dear Sir: Referring to the last two meetings at Springfield regarding the Illinois rate situation and especially to the petition presented by Mr. Barlow of the Chicago Merchants' association.

I have secured copies of the "21 exhibits" and without doubt they have good merits and will receive careful consideration from the commission, although by careful study of Mr. Barlow's figures and also of the proposition presented at the meeting with the railroad committee at the Union League club, Chicago, I cannot help but believe that their entire petition is strictly a Chicago proposition and will seriously handicap all interior Illinois jobbers and will create a new field for Chicago in central and southern Illinois at the expense of the interior jobbers, taking away from them the natural advantages to which they are justly entitled.

The interest that I represent is certainly in favor of actual reduction, but it is not in favor of reducing rates on L. O. L. business and advancing rates on car load business, which would result in the end of an actual advance to the manufacturers, which would be added to the cost of the goods, and what the small consumer has gained in the reduction on L. O. L. freight rates he has lost by an advance in the price of the article, caused by the advance in car load freight rates, and in the end has gained nothing.

Mr. Barlow has proposed a 40 cent scale, Chicago to East St. Louis, to be graded back as quickly as possible until the present scale is reached, and make no reduction for short hauls. In my opinion, the only just scale is to give the short haul the same relative reduction as the long haul. If Chicago succeeded in inducing the commission and the railroads to adopt their scale, they would undoubtedly be in control of the entire state, and would practically have the interior jobbers at their mercy, because Chicago already has the advantage to short haul points on account of their natural position, having lake rates on their raw material, and pays from 5 to 20 per cent less on her raw material from the east when shipped by all rail, and much less when shipped by lake and rail.

Again, the large volume of business which she does is in her favor, and if the new scale of rates which Mr. Barlow has asked for is granted, by which she controls central and southern Illinois, and deprives the interior jobbers of their natural territory, she certainly will have accomplished something which I believe is beyond expectation.

I understand your association represent interior jobbers and are heartily supporting Chicago's position. I have not heard any arguments from your association, and therefore do not know on what ground you have given your assistance to further the interest of Chicago at the expense of the interior jobber. By your action you certainly expect to secure some advantage over those you now enjoy, and with that end in view, I cannot help but agree with you providing I could convince myself that Chicago's proposition would give you what you so long have been fighting for. It isn't reasonable to believe that Chicago would do, or ask for anything which would help the interior jobbers. It may be possible I am looking at the rate situation from the wrong point of view, and realize whatever benefits you, and also benefit us, and it seems to me our views pertaining to the rate situation should be the same.

This is a personal matter with me, and I would like very much to have your opinion, as we are all working for the same cause. You will note that I have expressed myself very clearly, and if you can consistently give me the benefit of your good judgment pertaining to the rate situation, it will be very much appreciated, and in the mean time, I am Yours truly,

J. Young,

Traffic Manager.

ANSWER BY HON. H. J. HAMLIN.

To George E. Green, Esq., Secretary, Retail Merchants' Association of Illinois, Peoria, Ill.

Your letter of the 30th ultimo, enclosing letter written by Mr. Young, is received. Your enclosure is returned herewith.

I beg to state that Mr. Young is evidently not informed as to the evidence introduced in the former hearing before the railroad and warehouse commission, as well as the evidence introduced in the latter hearing. It is not proposed by Mr. Barlow, or any one else, so far as I know, nor is it sustained by the evidence, to make no reduction for short hauls. On the contrary, it will be insisted by the petitioners, as well as their counsel, that a radical reduction shall be made on short hauls.

There has been no evidence whatever introduced, nor any contention made by the petitioners, or any one else, looking toward the advancing of rates on car load business. The whole case is based upon the proposition to reduce freight rates on less than car load lots.

With reference to Mr. Young's letter, this is clearly an ingenious attempt upon the part of the railroad companies to array the interior jobbers against the Chicago Shippers' association, upon the ground that the Chicago Shippers' association is unwelcome in the interior, and to be able successfully to compete against the jobbers in the interior.

I will say that Mr. Barlow stated in the presence of yourself, I think, and others, that he was not appearing in this case to secure a reduction for the benefit of Chicago alone, but such a reduction as would benefit the entire state.

If a reduction of rates is made by the railroad and warehouse commission, it is safe to say that no such reduction will be made as will result in an injury to the jobbers in the interior of the state. I would not stand for such a proposition for a moment, nor in my judgment would the commission.

It is clear to my mind that the railroad companies, having failed to produce any satisfactory evidence justifying the present schedule of rates in this state, now hope to create dissension in the ranks of those who are seeking a reasonable reduction of the present freight rates. No scale of rates has been prepared by Mr. Barlow, nor by any one else. No schedule of rates that the commission shall make has been introduced in the evidence. The only scale of rates that has been mentioned will be found in the petitions originally filed in this case, which was a copy of the scale of rates as fixed by the Central Traffic association, and the original petitioners asked that that be made the basis of a schedule of rates to be made by the Illinois railroad and warehouse commission.

Of course, we all understand that the schedule of rates that will be made, as the result of this investigation, if any is made, will be the creature of the railroad and warehouse commission; but, in my judgment, it will be based upon all of the evidence that has been introduced in this case. I do not think that the railroads have presented any satisfactory defense to sustain the present Illinois maximum schedule of freight rates.

I trust that those who are interested in this matter will not be misled by the evident intention of the railroad companies. We should all stand together and do everything in our power to accomplish the desired end, that is, a reasonable reduction of freight rates, both as to short haul and long haul. I remain, very truly yours,

H. J. Hamlin.

HE CAN WHO THINKS HE CAN.

What would you think of a young man ambitious to become a lawyer, who should surround himself with a medical atmosphere and spend his time reading medical books? Do you think he would ever become a great lawyer by following such a course? No, he must put himself into a law atmosphere, where he can absorb it and be steeped in it until he is attuned to the legal note. He must be grafted into the legal tree so that he can feel its sap circulating through him.

How long would it take a young man to become successful who puts himself into an atmosphere of failure and remains in it until he is soaked to saturation with the idea? How long would it take a man who depicts himself in terms of failure, thinks of failure, walks like a failure, and dresses like a failure—who is always complaining of the insurmountable difficulties in his way, and whose every step is on the road to failure—how long would it take him to arrive at the success goal? Would any one believe in him or expect him to win?

The majority of failures began to deteriorate by doubting or depreciating themselves, or by losing confidence in their own ability. The moment you harbor doubt and begin to lose faith in yourself, you capitulate to the enemy. Every time you acknowledge weakness, inefficiency, or lack of ability, you weaken your self confidence, and that is to undermine the very foundation of all achievement.

So long as you carry around a failure atmosphere, and radiate doubt and discouragement, you will be a failure. Turn about face, cut off all the currents of failure thoughts, of discouraged thoughts. Boldly face your goal with a stout heart and a determined endeavor and you will find that things will change for you; but you must see a new world before you can live in it. It is to what you see, to what you believe, to what you struggle incessantly to attain, that you will approximate.

THE POWER OF STEAM.

Many May See But It Takes Genius To Realize.

When James Watt saw the steam causing the kettle lid to jump up and down he said: "There's much power in that steam that it can lift such a weight!" There was. Millions prior to him had seen the same phenomenon and regarded it as the explained mystery. Watt's recent patenting research has put his finger on the cause of Watt's "Falling" and consequent balance, and an understanding of the power which sets his life from the roots of human mind. AN ENDLESS CHAIN.

Exchange: Governor Deane gets some letters that indicate character so forcibly that he can almost see the writer standing before him. Some time ago he received an application from a patriot and Republican up the road. The man has a local reputation and a very elevated idea of his importance and ability. So he asked for one of the best jobs in the state service. The governor at the time was not thinking on appointments and office seekers. A stereotyped reply, like that sent to all applicants, was returned to him informing him that his application had been received and placed on file and would be considered when the subject was reached. In a day or two the governor was surprised to receive a letter running something like this: "I want to inform you that I cannot be put off with any such letters as you have written. I am a business man and know business methods. I am an applicant for such and such a place and I want it. I am entitled to it and I do not propose to be put off with such a letter as I have received." The receipt of this letter was acknowledged and the subject was dismissed. In a day or two another letter almost exactly like the first arrived. It was answered in the same manner. At last count seven letters, all practically alike, have been received by the governor, informing him "I am a business man and do not propose to be put off in any such manner." The receipt of each letter has been duly acknowledged, but where the endless chain is to end the governor does not know.

The piece of cheese that killed Thompson-Sutton's skunk must have been the real article.

The opinion seems to be quite readily concurred in that the water is tainted.

Tom Lawson has lost his voice, but not his vim. His nerve also seems to be staying with him pretty well.

Honesty in public life is soaring way above par these days. The beginning of the end of the grafter is in sight.

Only the "college with a future" is to be considered in administering the latest Rockefeller gift to the cause of education, declares Dr. Harper.
 We rise to remark: "Where would Chicago university be if the fund were limited to 'colleges with a past'?"

Jupiter Pluvius has opened the flood gates and many have since opened the mud gate. One does not have to go far away for mudvivia baths. They are on tap at home.

In these days of wars and rumors of wars, revolutions, mutinies, etc., China has shaken off her lethargy and is trying to butt into the peace conference.

The Latin republics of South America now claim to have reached their majority and are able to stand alone without the aid or consent of any other nations.

SAGHALIAN ISLAND.

Before the capture of Saghalian Island, it looked as though Japan held enough trumps to win the game, but she now appears to hold the joker also.
 The possession of the island is important because it is the first piece of Russian territory upon which the Japanese flag has been raised. The Russians carried the war into the enemy's country or rather refused to retire from Japanese territory after getting a foothold under false pretensions. The victory of planting Japanese colors on Russian soil has not been hailed with the acclamation that greeted the fall of Port Arthur or the victory of Togo, but it is a victory indeed of great consequence just the same and will be a factor, by no means insignificant, in the peace negotiations, about to begin. To be able within a period of eighteen months to drive the powerful army of the czar from strongholds deemed impregnable, to destroy a fleet that stood second to none and to win territory from an enemy that on paper towers to Pisa's height above herself, is an accomplishment that is un-chronicled in the annals of history.
 Spartan courage has found its counterpart in the Japanese. In diplomacy for representatives promise to be equally as shrewd as in war and when the final triumph is won the humiliation of Russia will be colossal.

THE SMALL COLLEGE.

President Harper condemns in toto a large number of the fresh water colleges of the central west whose past is a beacon light in the history of such states as Illinois, Iowa and Indiana and whose future, despite the fact that they are classed as "back numbers" and outside the "educational elite" is as secure, so far as a place in history is concerned, as the great Chicago university, an educational mushroom, whose only claim to distinction thus far is its material and physical greatness. The fertile brain of Dr. Harper, whose genius we would by no means discredit, conceived a plan in recent months to amalgamate the small college, in other words to destroy the real entity of the small college as a distinct and separate institution, with an individual atmosphere peculiarly its own, and now permeating commercial life, to consolidate all interests and pool all issues. Some of the small colleges found favor in the scheme, but they were few. They realized that the small college, when it linked its destiny to the large institution, met with the same fate as the small concern when it becomes absorbed by the larger plant. Most of the fresh water colleges have decided to stand or fall by their own weight, and the stand is a wise one.

The future of the small college is an important question, and important to each institution and each community where it is located in its own peculiar way. Education, however, is a commodity that no one can corner. There will be demands for it in every corner and no one plant, be its magnitude and its resources what they may, can adequately meet this demand. If, as Mr. Harper says, the Rockefeller gift to education will tend to differentiate the university and the college, it will have done the cause of learning a great service. The differentiation, if it can once be established in America, will also do the small college a lasting good, a greater good than if the small college had been the recipient of large monetary sums. In the educational system of America there is a place for the small college. In the past its work has stood to the front in a conspicuous manner, and if the educational interests of the country are adjusted to a right basis the small institution will not be jostled out of position, but rather will become more firmly intrenching in a system to which it has already contributed its share of stability and strength. Let us have fewer universities, but many small colleges. Then will our education become more universal and our culture correspondingly broad.

LESSONS OF THE WAR.

An "African Brigadier," writing to the London Standard, declares that the principle of Japanese attacks could not be used against German, French or American troops.
 "Is it not a fact that the rifle in the hands of the Russian peasant soldiery was not utilized to the full extent of which it is capable in repel-ling an attack?"

"The Russians were not able to use their fire adequately, with the result that the Japanese, counting upon this deficiency, stormed positions with masses and received the terrible casualties of close quarter work instead of the wholesale massacre which might have ensued if every foot of the advance had been covered by efficient rifle fire."

"Napoleon said that fire is everything, and the rest of small account.
 In the case of the Russians it was the fire that had been of small account, therefore let us have ample evidence that the lessons of the war are drawn from fairly normal conditions before we alter our methods.
 Personally I am of opinion that no attack in mass of any kind can survive efficient rifle fire."

Why Soap Eaters Eat Soap.

Mr. Charles S. Howe, the general secretary of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, said at a dinner of scientists:
 "False science, the pseudo scientific method, with its explanations that explain nothing and help us in nowise, may be illustrated perhaps with a little episode that I heard of the other day."

"A student went to his instructor and said:
 "'I am informed, sir, that people are sometimes born with a desire to eat soap?'"

"That is quite true," the instructor answered.

"What is the cause of it?" asked the student.

"These people," was the reply,
 "are the victims of sapsomania."

"What does sapsomania mean, professor?" the student said.

"It means," the professor answered, "a desire to eat soap."—

The Indian Club Trick.

Can you lean over, place an Indian club on the top of your head and keep it balanced there? Try it and see.
 Or take a bottle. It will be quite as good for the purpose.

If you can do this you are ready for the Indian club trick. With the Indian club balanced on your head stoop down and pick up some small object like a coin from the floor with your mouth and rise again.

If you fail and conclude that the trick is not as easy as it at first seemed try these directions and see if you can then succeed.

Bend your head until your chin rests firmly against your breast; then, placing the Indian club on your head, make sure that it balances perfectly.

Finally bend your knees cautiously, bringing one knee to the floor, stretch your legs out under you and slowly bring your mouth down to the object that is to be picked up off the floor.

When you have got it in your mouth go backward through all the above motions and return to your original position.

The Vanishing Coin.

Having previously stuck a small piece of white wax on the nail of your middle finger, lay a dime on the palm of your hand and, addressing the company, state that it shall vanish at the word of command. "Many persons," you observe, "perform this feat by letting the dime fall into their sleeve, but to convince you that I shall not have recourse to any such mean deception, I will turn up my cuffs." Then close your hand and, bringing the waxed nail in contact with the dime, it will firmly adhere to it. Blow your hand and cry "Begone!" and suddenly opening it and exhibiting the palm, you show that the dime has vanished. It is as well to borrow the coin from one of the company, but take care to rub off the wax before you restore it to the owner.

Incident of Our Flag.

An interesting little incident occurred a few years ago in China. At a Fourth of July dinner in Shanghai the English consul, in toasting the flag of his country said: "Here's to the union jack—the flag of flags—the flag that has floated on every continent and on every sea for 1,000 years; the flag on which the sun never sets."

It was such a strong sentiment that the Americans were a little embarrassed until Bill Perkins was called to toast the stars and stripes. He said: "When the setting sun lights up her stars in Alaska the rising sun salutes her on the rockbound coast of Maine. It is the flag of liberty, never loved to any foe, and the only flag that whipped the flag on 'which the sun never sets.'"

About the Stars.

There is a curious myth about the stars which tells that the sun and moon are both women. The stars are the children of the moon, and the sun at one time had as many. Fearing that mankind could not bear so much light, each agreed to eat up her offspring.
 The moon hid hers away, but the sun kept her word. After a length of time the moon brought hers from her hiding place. When the sun saw them she was filled with rage and chased the moon to kill her. This chase has lasted ever since. Sometimes the sun comes near enough to bite the moon, and man calls this encounter an eclipse.
 All day long the moon hides her children, only to bring them out when the sun is far away.

Flags at Half Mast.

What is the origin of displaying flags at half mast?

When this question is put to people the answer always is unhesitatingly given: "It is borrowed from the navy.
 The pennant at half mast is always a sign of mourning."

Yes, but was it at first a ship's signal of distress, as some say?

In the seventeenth century it was so employed by the Spaniards, and in the following century it was so recognized by English and French sailors. We also know that flags were commonly used at funerals in England; hence the common application of the combination of the two usages on occasions of bereavement.

Conundrums.

Luke had it in the beginning; Paul had it in the end; girls have it once, but boys never have it. (The letter L.)

In Amsterdam there is a thing that is in music, but not in sing; twice in a moment, but not in a second; in all kinds of timber, but not in a tree; it is not in you, but it is in me. (The letter M.)

In Arkansas:

A woman who wears a stuffed bird in her hat is liable to a fine of from $25 to $50 by a law recently passed by the legislature of Arkansas.—Little Chronicle.

My Mamma's Lap.

I like t' play wif dollies, an' I like t' go t' school;
 I like t' jump my skippin' rope in mornin's when it's cool;
 I like t' play go visitin' while dolly takes her nap,
 But sometimes nuffin' else 'll do but sit in mamma's lap.

I like t' climb th' peach tree, an' I like t'
 make mud pies;
 I like t' play wif puppy, an' I like a bird-day 'sprise;
 I like t' go out ridin' an' let wear my little cap,
 But when I'm tired an' sleepy, w'y, I want my mamma's lap.

I like t' tend my playhouse—'t's th' finest place in town;
 I like t' play big lady wif long skirts
 a-hangin' down;
 I like t' go t' Sunday school an' wear my new silk wrap,
 But when a lump gets in my throat I let want mamma's lap.

What promised to be one of the best ball games of the season at West Side park, was brought to a close in the first half of the third inning by the rain Sunday, leaving the score 0 to 0. The opposing team was from Havana and a large crowd had gathered to witness the contest.

When the game was called Havana had three men on bases and no one out. The ball was so wet and muddy that neither pitcher was able to get the ball over the plate, and many bases on balls resulted.

Wabash people are wondering how and when the pay checks will come. A few of the pay checks have already been sent out, but these were for employees of general offices. These have always been sent out immediately after the first of the month. Other employees have hitherto been paid between the 15th and the 20th, the second or third day after the pay ear left St. Louis. It is not believed that the abandonment of the pay ear materially hastens pay day.

RAILROAD NEWS NOTES

John Hagel Leaves Yards of C. P. & St. L. After Twenty Years of Service—Trouble on Wabash Excursion—Kansas City Flood Cars—Personal Mention.

John Hagel, for twenty years or more employed in the C. P. & St. L. yards in this city—for many years as yardmaster—has resigned and gone to work in the machine department of the local shops. He is succeeded by Arthur Mathews, switchman in the yards, and Mr. Mathews' place has been taken by Samuel Jackson. Mr. Hagel has had an honorable record with the road and has always been an efficient man. He felt that for so many years in safety that it was time for him to be seeking less active employment. He takes the bolt machine, a position made vacant by the resignation of S. F. Fenstermaker, who was recently appointed to a position in the fire department.

At the master car builders' convention the executive committee presented resolutions in regard to the Kansas City flood case, which declared that the roads on whose tracks the cars were destroyed shall pay bills for this loss within sixty days of notice, and if not paid the representatives of such roads shall no longer be regarded as members of the association. The presentation of these resolutions for adoption was one of the most important actions ever taken at a convention, being one which might seriously affect the dignity and integrity of the association, and as the members were not previously advised of it, they were hardly prepared to give the question the mature consideration which it deserved. The association decided to cancel the clause relating to the penalty and adopted the resolution to the effect that the Kansas City roads shall pay the bills for cars lost in the flood. During the discussion on the resolution a telegram was read from the president of one of those roads, saying his road had no intention of paying bills for cars so destroyed, and it is understood that the higher officials of the other roads on whose tracks the cars were lost are of a similar state of mind. The arguments of those in favor of the resolutions as a whole were confined to the relations and obligations of the members of the master car builders' association, and no attempt was made to defend the case when its legal aspect shall be considered.

(7)

The Wabash excursion from Springfield and intermediate points to Kookuk and by boat to Ft. Madison, Iowa, took 102 persons from this city. The special comprised seven cars, all well filled, and was in charge of Conductor Lippert. Returning, the train arrived in the city in good time, shortly after 12 o'clock p. m. The excursion in the main was a quiet one, there being little or no trouble until the arrival of the train here, when an altercation arose between the conductor and a passenger from New Berlin, which resulted in the latter hitting the conductor. Wabash Special Agent Sullivan was on the train and placed the man under arrest, turning him over to Policeman Walsh, who was at the depot. He was taken to headquarters, where he was released, there being no charges brought against him.

(8)

There are persistent rumors of still further changes in the management of the Wabash, and it is thought that the policy of consolidation will be still further followed out as soon as the road recovers from the effects of those changes recently made. Just what the policy will be, even those who keep best posted are unable to predict.

(9)

A representative of the Alton's passenger department remarked recently that not in years had the east bound traffic been so slim or were there so few excursion opportunities to the seaboard. The energies of the roads seem to be expended toward the west, with the result that one can go west almost anywhere and at any time at small expense. The rates to the west are said to be the lowest ever made and in addition have the most inviting limit. The east bound excursions are few. The only one of importance so far was to Ashbury Park, N. J., on account of the educators. The patronage was very good. There was an excursion arranged for Boston, but this has been cancelled.

The Lambrigger show came in via the Burlington from Beardstown Sunday.

Twenty-eight laborers went through on the Burlington Monday for work on the Herrin extension out of Centralia.

T. M. Strain, master carpenter of the Wabash, and a number of their surveyors were in the city Monday.

(14)

C. P. Bemis, trainmaster of the Alton, was in the city for a short time Monday.

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt will come with her company from Buenos Ayres and tour America next season.

"For genuine comfort and economy commend me to the shirt waist suit of dark China silk," said a woman who wore one. "They are the nicest inventions in the world for business women. WILL APPEAR AS FROTHMAN STAR

Miss Claudia Lassell Hockenull Accepts Flattering Offer and Will Make Her Debut in Comic Opera in London—Former Resident of Jacksonville.

The following article, taken from the Sunday issue of the Chicago Record-Herald refers to Miss Claudia Lassell Hockenull, daughter of John N. Hockenull, formerly of this city, and who for the past five or six years has been residing with her mother in Paris. During her residence in Jacksonville Miss Hockenull gave promise of making a great singer and her subsequent study with European teachers has developed her vocal powers. It was her intention to appear in London this summer under the Daly management, but her plans may have been changed since the advices received by friends in this city. Lassell was the maiden name of Mrs. Hockenull and it is probable that Miss Claudia will use it as her stage name.

"Charles Frohman has discovered a new star for the comic opera field. His astrometric observations this time were in Paris and the young woman in question is an American who has resided in Paris with her mother for several years.

"She is Miss Claudia Lassell, formerly of Boston, where her family is well known. She sang in concert in that city before going abroad and for four or five years studied with Mme. Marchesi and afterward with Clark. She has sung a great deal in Paris, where she and her mother are well known in the American colony, and was to have made her debut shortly at the Opera Comique.

"Mr. Frohman heard her sing and immediately engaged her to head one of his English companies. She will make her first appearance at Blackpool in the musical comedy, 'Paddy Macree,' afterward coming to London under the management of C. E. Hamilton of Mr. Frohman's staff.

"Miss Lassell is well known in Paris as an automobilist, as she drives her big car as skillfully as most expert drivers, and was one of the first women in Paris to drive her own machine."
